June and July recap

CAMPS , CAMPS , AND MORE CAMPS

Summer is camp season, and many Yorktown wrestlers took advantage of the opportunity to train with some of the best coaches and athletes in the country. From Oklahoma State Wrestling Camp to Purler Wrestling Academy and other outstanding camps, our wrestlers traveled across the country in pursuit of improvement. These camps provided countless hours of instruction, live wrestling, and competition, helping our athletes sharpen their technique, build confidence, and develop the mindset needed to compete at a higher level. Just as importantly, they created lasting friendships, learned from wrestlers with different backgrounds, and experienced the fun that comes with being part of the wrestling community. Every camp, every practice, and every match is another brick in the foundation. The work put in this summer will pay dividends when the season begins.

GREEN DAYS AND WISE WORDS

Throughout the summer, the team hosted Green Day practices, giving wrestlers another opportunity to improve their skills and prepare for the upcoming season.

We were fortunate to welcome three special guests: David Swiger of NOVA Wrestling Club, Liam Gil-Swiger, Yorktown's most recent state champion, and Telmuun Byambajargal, a recent Yorktown Wrestling alumnus.

Green Days weren't just about getting better on the mat—they were also a reminder of what makes wrestling special: community, supporting one another, and committing to hard work every day.

June and July recap

SPORTSMAN OF THE YEAR & OUTSTANDING COACH

Yorktown Wrestling was honored to be recognized at the Better Sports Club of Arlington Awards Banquet with two special awards.

Senior captain Logan Futrell was named Wrestling Sportsman of the Year, earning the Matthew T. Cluff Memorial Trophy. Although Logan's senior season was cut short by an ACL injury, he never stopped leading. He dedicated himself to helping his teammates improve every day, demonstrating the selflessness, leadership, and character that define our program. We are incredibly proud of Logan and wish him the best as he begins the next chapter of his academic journey at Boston University.

Head Coach Andrew Adams was honored with the John Glover Memorial Outstanding Coach Award. This recognition reflects the vision of building a program where every student-athlete has the opportunity to grow, not only as a wrestler, but as a person. Since taking over the program, the focus has been on creating a culture where hard work, accountability, and continuous improvement are valued just as much as wins and losses. While it is a tremendous personal honor, this award is truly a reflection of the people who make Yorktown Wrestling what it is. Our assistant coaches, wrestlers, parents, boosters, alumni, and supporters have all played a role in building a program that continues to grow brick by brick. Together, we look forward to continuing that journey for years to come.
